

London's new politics of planning

Time to think more strategically to deliver the homes and workspace we need

Organised by London Planning Analyst, with Planning in London magazine, hosted by Colliers International

Wednesday, 19 October 2016

at Colliers International, 50 George Street, London W1U 7GA

London has a new mayor. Brexit is looming. Two factors that have an enormous impact on politics and policies in the capital. London Planning Analyst's inaugural conference will focus on the strategic opportunities new Mayor Sadiq Khan should seize, and speakers will argue for policy changes to deliver the homes and work spaces we need.

PROGRAMME

8.30 – 9.00 Registration and Coffee

9.00 – 9.05 Welcome and opening remarks

Welcome: Tony Horrell, Chief Executive, Colliers International UK and Ireland

Moderator: Lee Mallett, Consulting Editor, London Planning Analyst

SESSION 1 KEYNOTE SPEAKERS

9.05 – 9.20

The view from the bridge - the policy maker

Colin Wilson, Strategic Planning Manager, Greater London Authority

9.20 – 9.30

New strategic directions

Jonathan Manns, Director, Colliers International

9.30 – 9.40

The view from the engine room

Jo Negrini, Chief Executive, London Borough of Croydon

9.40 – 10.00

Panel Discussion

A discussion with the audience, chaired by Lee Mallett

SESSION 2 THE FUTURE: WHAT WE'D LIKE TO SEE.
ASSESSING THE IMPACT ON WORKSPACE AND HOMES

10.00 – 11.00

Will the new Mayor's emerging policies on homes and workspace deliver the goods?

Panelists from the private and public sectors will give their reactions to the keynotes and discuss the implications of emerging policies, with 15 minutes Q&A. Panelists include:

Elliot Lipton, Chief Executive, First Base

Pat Hayes, Director of Regeneration and Housing, London Borough of Ealing

Ivan Harbour, Partner, Rogers Stirk Harbour

Jane Briginshaw, Director, Jane Briginshaw Associates and former head of design and sustainability at the HCA

11.00 – 11.20 BREAK

SESSION 3 – FOCUS ON WORKSPACE

11.20 – 12.30

Working London: Are we running out of the right sort of workspace in the places we need it?

Workspace rents are rising and supply is running out. Do we need new planning policies for workspace? Q&A.

Panelists include:

Emily Prideaux, Associate, Leasing, Derwent London

Charlie Green, Chief Executive, The Office Group

Rob Harris, Director, Ramidus Consulting

Andrew Sissons, Director, Andrew Sissons Consulting, consultant, former head of regeneration, LB Hackney

12.30 – 12.45

Summary of the morning's debate

Paul Finch, Editorial Director, AJ and AR and Director,
World Architecture Festival, Co-Editor, Planning in London

1.00 – 2.00 LUNCH

SESSION 4 – FOCUS ON HOMES

2.00 – 3.00

Living London: How can London get the homes it needs?

Will Sadiq Khan's policies deliver? Or will we simply have to build more Council homes? Q&A. Panelists include:

Councillor Tony Devenish, Chair of GLA Planning Committee

Jon Gooding, Chief Executive, Dolphin Living

Richard Blakeway, former housing advisor to No.10 and Deputy Mayor for Housing

John Adams, Partner Head of Planning, Deloitte

3.00 – 3.20 BREAK

3.20 – 4.30

Intensification, mixed-use and masterplanning

Will more mixed-use, denser schemes deliver what we need? But do we need better policies to ensure we get quality and flexibility? Q&A. Panelists include:

Peter Freeman, founder, Argent LLP and Mayfield Market

Towns

Kathryn Firth, urban design consultant and member of the Mayor's Design Advisory Group

Roger Hepher, Director, Hepher Grincell

Geoff Denton, Director, White Arkitekter

4.30-4.45

Summing up

Brian Waters, Publishing Editor, Planning in London magazine and Chair of the National Planning Forum and the London Planning and Development Forum

Closing remarks

Lee Mallett, conference moderator

4.45 DRINKS